Huahine is famous for its sacred eels which guests can feed from a bridge crossing the stream where they live.

DAY 4

Huahine - Raiatea

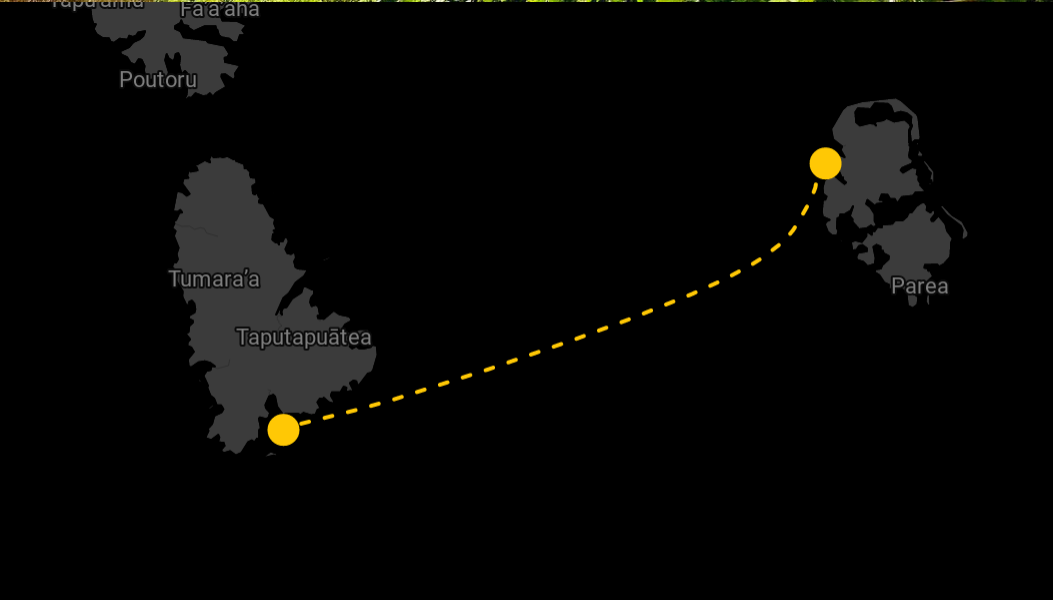

DISTANCE

24nm

DURATION

2h 5m

Raiatea is known as "Raiatea the Sacred" and is the second largest of the Leeward Islands after Tahiti. It was once the cultural and religious capital of eastern Polynesia, with Taputapuātea, a marae or sacred place and UNESCO World heritage Site situated on the south east of the island. It is thought that Raiatea was the starting point for the major migrations to the Hawaiian Islands and New Zealand. Many tours are available on the island including cultural, historical, 4WD vehicle and archaeology. The crystal sea makes the island ideal for water-sports. French and local cuisines and seafood are the main fare available but a variety of European dishes can also be had.

DAY 5

Raiatea - Tahaa

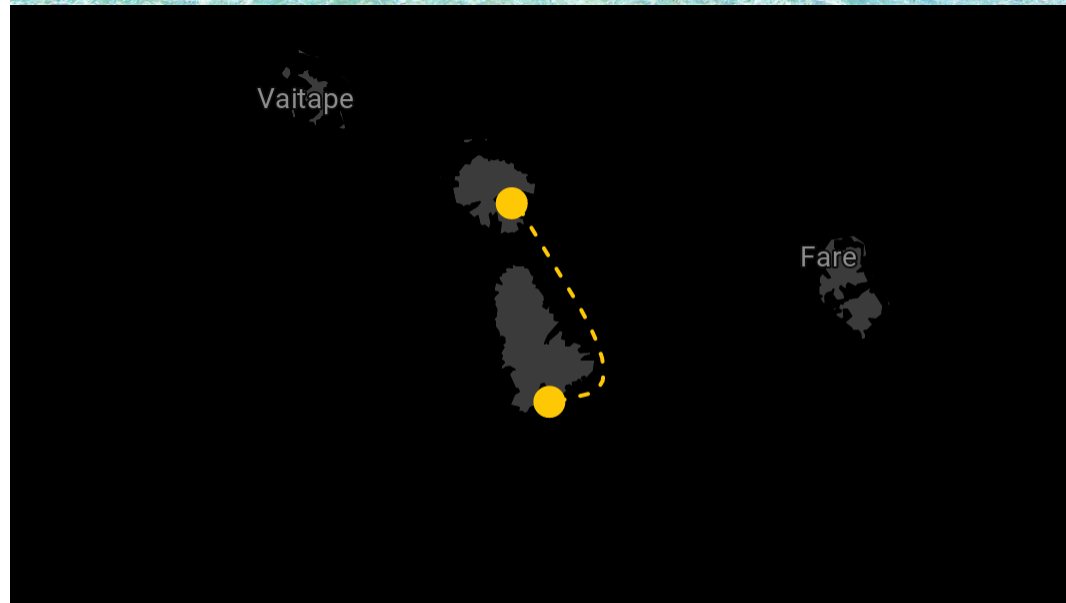

DISTANCE

21nm

DURATION

1h 50m

Accessed from nearby Raiatea, Tahaa is best known for its vanilla and pearls, both of which are of high quality. It is less modern than other Society Islands and is an excellent venue for jetskiing, snorkelling and scuba diving. Other activities include visiting a vanilla farm, pearl farm and day tours. French and local cuisines and seafood are the main food available but a variety of European dishes can also be had.

DAY 6

4h 30m

In French Polynesia's western Leeward islands, Maupiti is a beautiful coral atoll with a volcanic island at its center. It is the ultimate getaway destination, void of tourist exploitation and development and still holding onto its sense of sublime wildness. While people often bolt for Bora Bora, those seeking a softer, calmer side of French Polynesia can laze on soft, white sands and explore the perfect turquoise waters and coral gardens by kayak, snorkeling, or diving.

DAY 7

Maupiti - Bora Bora

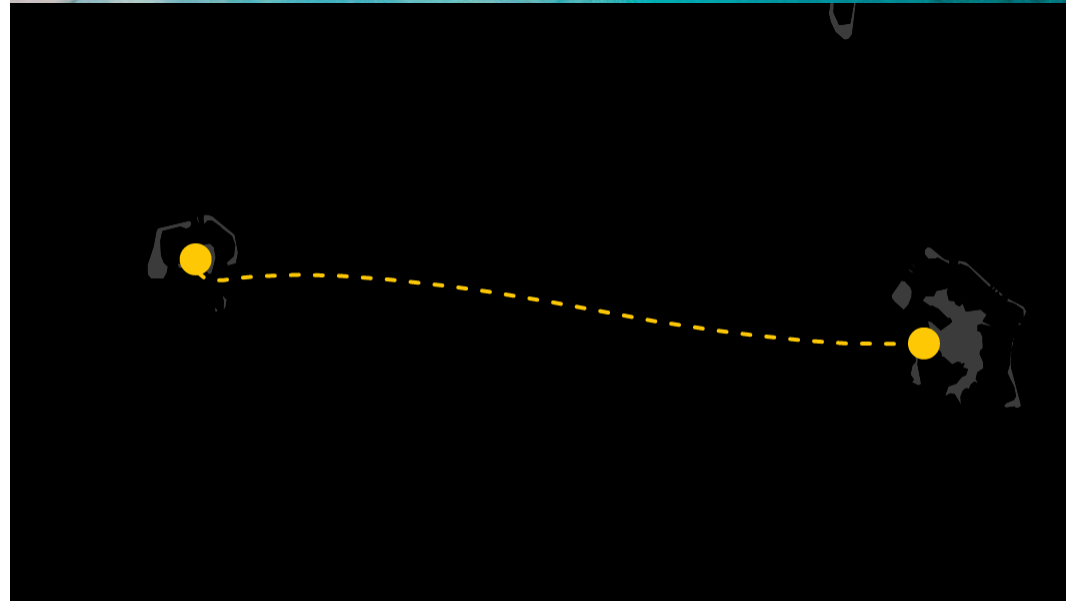

DISTANCE

30nm

DURATION

2h 30m

One of the world's most romantic islands, Bora Bora is an ideal sailing destination for honeymoons and wedding anniversaries. Surrounded by golden sands and glistening turquoise waters, it is a genuine premium holiday spot. The best activities are water based and these include scuba diving, snorkelling, jetskiing, paddle-boarding, rafting, jet boating, kayaking, shark diving and many more. Dry land excursions include island tours by quad-bike and 4WD. A boat trip to the Lagoonarium is well worth it. Bora Bora has a number of fine dining restaurants as well as others providing a wide range of food including Sushi, French, European, Asian and other cuisines.

DAY 8

Bora Bora

DAY 9

Bora Bora - Apataki

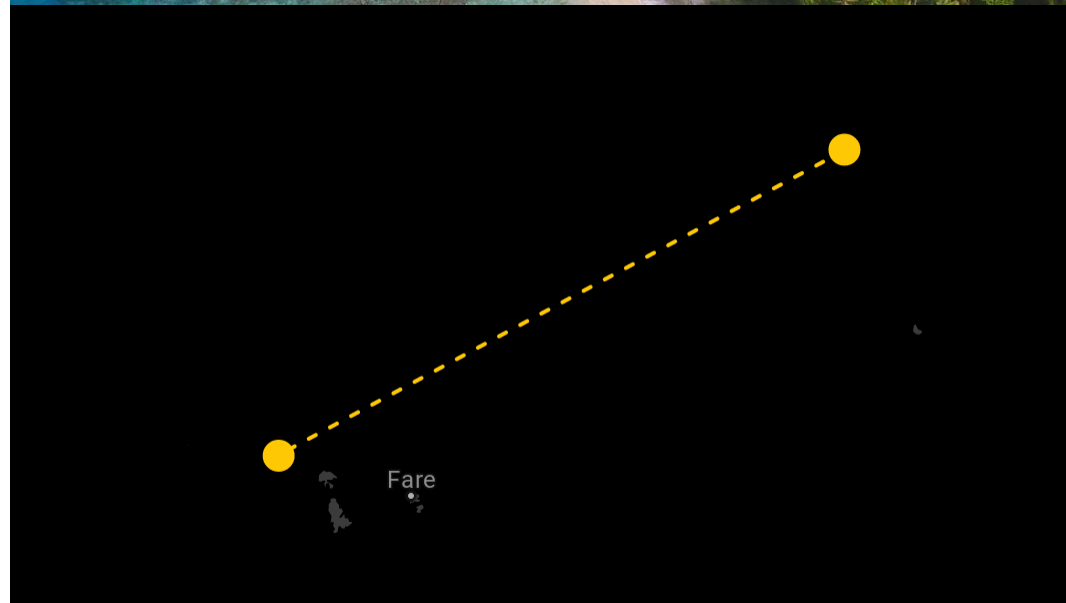

DISTANCE

204nm

DURATION

17h 5m

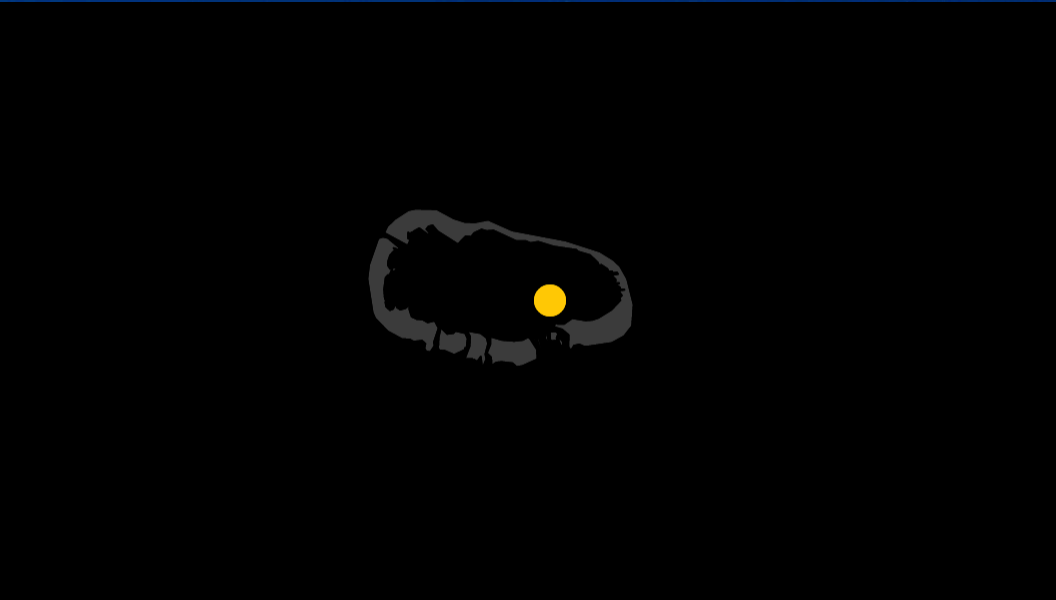

The epicentre of pearl culture can be found on the blissful island of Apataki. A French Polynesian gem, this small and unspoiled atoll is the best spot for pearl diving in French Polynesia. Sitting in the northwestern Tuamotu Islands, Apataki is all scenic grace with its rose gold sands, shimmering seas, and colourful fishes swimming in the shallows. It's this crystal clear visibility and access passes that make it a great diving spot for those wanting to duck down into the coral atoll. Apataki is also the home of rare seabird colonies and boasts a handful of deserted beaches that rarely sees any travellers stop by its shores. For yacht charter guests looking to dive and dream on a perfectly conserved atoll, Apataki is sure to ignite the imagination.

DAY 10

Apataki

DAY 11

Apataki - Toau

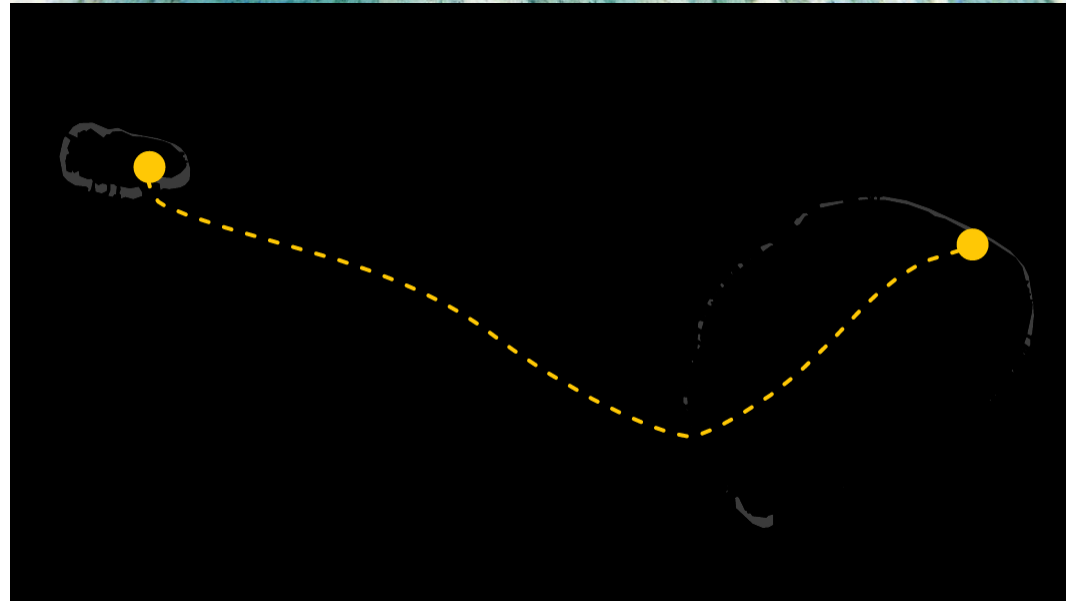

DISTANCE

With only a handful of people living there, Toau is a tapestry of blue. This is a great chance to capture sight of everyday local life on a French Polynesian atoll. Moor up and immerse yourself in a lively yet laid back local scene with ukulele music and dancing. Head out lobstering or learn about the local spearfishing. Snap something delicious to be cooked at lunch and spend long afternoons face down with a mask and flippers as you cruise the crystalline waters. Head to Teahuroa on the southeastern side of the atoll where romantic little white sand beaches entice you in with perfect picnic spots and dazzling sunsets.

DAY 12

Toau - Rangiroa Atoll

DISTANCE

35nm

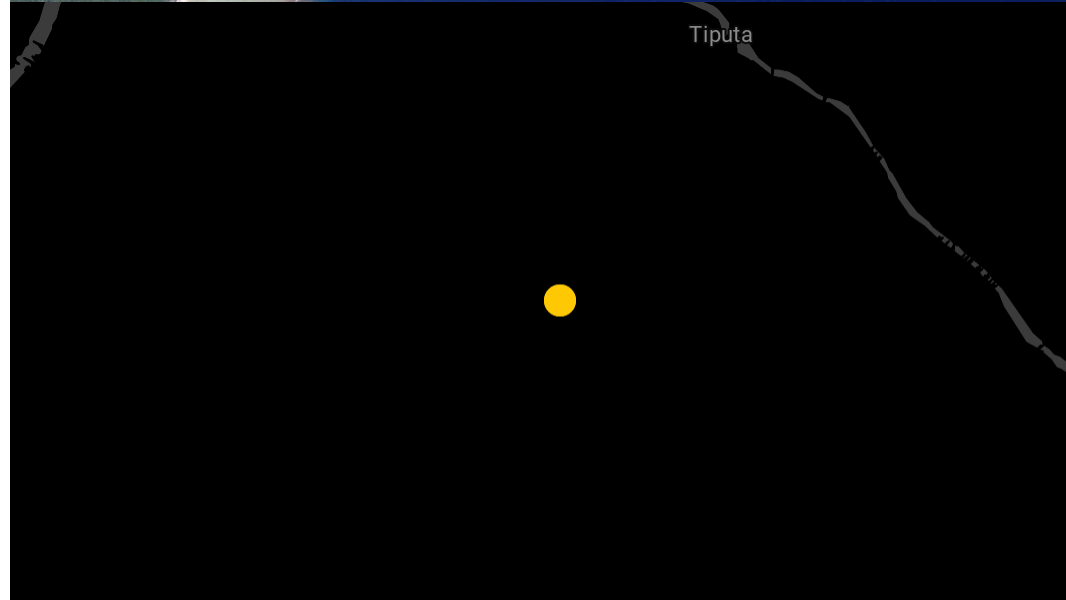

DURATION
